Crime Comic Ban Wins OK of House

Private Member's Bill Given Second Reading

By Ronald A. Nickerson

British United Press Correspondent

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(BUP)—The government was preparing today to put the ban on publishers and distributors of crime comic. Its plans were expected to take concrete shape before the end of this session of parliament.

According to Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent, the campaign, long demanded by church and other groups, would also cover a wide range of obscene and pornographic literature. He said there was too much of that sort of thing being sold in Canada.

MARKET FLOODED

Crime and horror comic, as well as magazines, books and periodicals portraying pornography, were literally flooding the Canadian market, the minister said.

Sales and publication were reported mainly to two or three eastern cities, he noted, with "Toronto the Good" leading the way with more than half the rest of the country put together.

The "fix" to use a word common to crime comic, was set in motion last night in the Commons. The man who engineered it, E. David Fulton (P.C.-Kamloops), gained a hard-won victory by having his private bill cleared by the government and given second reading—agreement in principle—by the house.

RHODES SCHOLAR

The red-haired, 33-year-old Fulton, a former Rhodes Scholar from British Columbia and now regarded as one of the opposition's up-and-coming leaders, started his fight more than two years ago when W. H. Fisher, now Nova Scotia judge, was justice minister.

Fulton's bill, essentially the same one he introduced each session since then, would amend the Criminal Code to nullify sales or publication of crime comics that tend to induce violence in or corrupt the morals of juveniles.

It was designed as an amendment to section 207 of the code which makes it an indictable offense, punishable by two years' imprisonment, for anyone to knowingly publish or distribute for sale or publication of obscene literature.

WORDING LOOPLHOLE

Gordon fully backed Fulton's amendment, but he said he felt it didn't go far enough. The minister also suggested it would be easily enforceable under the wording of that particular section of the federal law.

The section, the banned sale and publication of obscene literature since 1907, Gordon said, but despite that it had not stopped the record widespread distribution of pornographic reading material in Canada.

Crown prosecutors and provincial attorneys-general, who are responsible for prosecutions under section 207, had had extreme difficulty proving that publishers and vendors of that kind of material sold "knowingly" printed or sold such literature. That word, "knowingly," was the last loophole left in the law.

Heated Arena At Drumheller

DRUMHELLER, Oct. 22.—A contract endorsed by the city council and submitted to the Canadian Utilities officials, if acceptable, will provide steam heat for the Drumheller area. The plan, which calls for a minimum temperature of 72 degrees in dressing room and general waiting room, will call for a pipe line from the utilities plant to the arena.

Coal storage space for the utilities plant in property adjacent to the present slack pile is provided through the contract awaiting the approval of officials.

Patients Go To Jail As Hospitals Crowded

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—(CP)—The head of the Montreal police social service squad said today the problem in Montreal of hospital placement for mental cases is creating the "most disgusting situation" in his 20 years' experience.

Defective-Sergeant A. A. Finel said the hospital accommodation shortage means patients are "left to die" in police stations and jails, "sometimes tied to their beds for weeks at a time."

Declaring that more hospitals are the only solution, Sgt. Finel told of cases that have come to his attention.

A 75-year-old woman mental patient is dying in Pulmon street women's jail because of lack of required medical attention. In addition to the 75-year-old woman, there are six other cases. Jail authorities say they can look after them no more.

Relatives of many patients unable to find hospital accommodation have taken to the courts. A technical charge, such as disturbing the peace, is laid. On the patient's arraignment a mental examination is demanded and the result is an insanity finding, the patient is ordered confined.

Superior Judge Robert Gaudin granted her temporary custody of the little girl and ordered $100 the principal back into court next Friday to settle the matter of the threats and custody of Barbara.

The actress' mother, Mrs. Ruth Davidson, and her secretary, Bridget Price, both said they didn't even know Miss Davis' thinking about shedding Barry, her third husband. He was a masseur before venting the theatre.

In her action, the star said she and the broad-brimmed artist separated only two days ago. She used the old Hollywood excuse—her husband's infidelity and asked for his community property.

They met on the sands of Laguna Beach, a nearby artist colony where Miss Davis was resting before moving and Sherry was beginning his painting career.

They talked about art, but after a few months their let-a-let-a-let-a got more personal and they set Nov. 30, 1946, as their wedding date.

If Vet Foregoes Grant Can Get Title to Land

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(CP)—Victoria cross winner today in the Commons urged another VC holder to reconsider the case of the war Veterans' aid with one to wherever the service before he can take possession of property obtained under the government's small holdings act.

Some of these veterans were ready to complete payments in less time than is necessary to obtain title to the land. Miss G. G. R. Perkins, VC (P.C.-Nanaimo), during consideration of veterans department estimates.

Others who wanted to get these small holdings were barred because they must accept three acres of land where the cost is less than $500 and more than two acres where the cost is more than $500 an acre.

New X-Ray Machine For Royal Alexandra

A new $19,000 X-ray machine will be bought for the Royal Alexandra Hospital laboratory.

This was decided last night at a meeting of the board of directors. The board approved appropriation for the new equipment after being told that expense for maintaining tubes in the old machine to date was $5,000.

Technical term for the present machine is "Ferranti Diagnostic Machine". The board was informed it burned out an average of a tube every two months. Cost of replacing a tube is about $600, with a guarantee of 8 weeks.

Report submitted by finance committee showed that cost of operation for September was $119,045, making a total of $1,846,579 for 1960. Expenses for the first nine months this year were $153,797.

Cracked Same Way Liquor Made

Crackers at Imperial Oil Plant Do Custom Job to Meet Needs

By Stan Burkie
Bulletin Staff Reporter

Most people get mad if you accuse them of being "crackers." But not the men who run the big ten million dollar Imperial Oil refinery at Edmonton. They're crackers and proud of it.

"Cracking" is one of the essential processes in the complex science of refining oil.

Oil is composed of many "hydrocarbon" molecules—that is, it is made up of hydrogen, carbon and oxygen atoms all strung together like a child's tinny-toy train.

The more of these atoms are strung together in single group, or molecule, the heavier the product they form. Fuel oil, for example, is made up of much larger and more complicated molecules than gasoline.

Since the lighter petroleum products, like gasoline, are more valuable than the heavy ones, the job of the engineers is to "crack" these big molecules down into lighter ones.

JOB IN TWO PARTS

There are two separate phases to this job. First of all, the crude oil is separated into its constituent parts, or molecules, are sorted out into different sizes.

Then, when everything is neatly and tidily arranged, the technicians go to work on the big clumsy molecules and crack them down into neat, little numbers which bring a better price.

The big tall silvery towers which are the outstanding feature of an oil refinery are equipment used in this process.

The crude oil is first heated up to 600 degrees in a gas oven, and then put into the "bubble" tower. This bubble tower consists of a stack of trays inside a big steel tube.

WORKS LIKE A STILL

The oil vapors enter the tower at the bottom and bubble up through the trays, gradually cooling as they go up.

The heavier "fractions" turn to a liquid at a fairly high temperature near the bottom. The lighter molecules remain in gas form until they reach the cooler regions at the top.

As the fractions turn to liquid, they collect in the trays and are drained out of the tower.

This apparatus is simply a still which works the same way as those which make moonshine or rum. The same process takes place in the kitchen kettle when the water boils and the steam cools down and condenses on the cold parts of the stove.

The product which is left over after the distilling treatment is called reduced crude. This reduced crude is piped over to the cracking towers where it is given a sort of hot foot and high pressure, later becoming something more useful.

The reduced crude is heated to a temperature of between 900 and 1,000 degrees. It is then put through three towers in succession mixed with low quality gasoline which hasn't made the octane grade.

What remains liquid is fuel oil and is drawn off. What becomes a gas in the second tower is passed into the third, or refractionating tower.

Lower, where the various products are separated out in somewhat the same manner as in the bubble tower.

Heavier fractions, such as diesel oil and kerosene are drawn off lower down in the refractionating tower. Gasoline comes off near the top, while at the extreme top, nothing remains but the gases such as methane, ethane and propane.

"TAILORED" GASOLINE

During the winter, extra butane gas is dissolved in the gasoline to improve the starting characteristics. Butane, one of the gases produced in cracking, vapourizes more quickly than gasoline. A little extra butane in the fuel thus ensures the family car will have a good starting season.

However, you can't have too high an octane rating. Too much "light end" or there will be a serious loss of power.

The science of making gasoline is thus a matter of obtaining the ideal combination of butane-like light fractions and the less-volatile heavy fractions from the distilling and cracking processes.

It is a complex task at the big $10,000,000 plant, one of the most important in Alberta.

It is the largest refinery in western Canada and ranks with the larger plants in the United States. With reserves of oil being tapped almost weekly, further expansion is being planned.

Five films depicting Canadian artists at work and some of their techniques will be shown Monday at the Edmonton Museum of Art.

Showing of University Extension Department films will be sponsored by Federation of Canadian Artists and University Students Art Club Show from 8 p.m. and all interested artists and laymen are invited to attend.

One film, "Painters of Quebec" shows artists of Quebec at work, while another, "Klee Wyk" depicts life among B.C. Indians as seen by Emily Carr.

Two Canadian sculptors are featured in "Third Dimension". Other semi-technical shows to be shown include three on tap work and technique.

Two more Polio Cases Reported

Two new reported cases of polio brought the provincial total to 106 for the season.

Latest victims are a woman of 30 from Barrhead and a boy of 15 from Brooks.

Six deaths have occurred as a result of this year's outbreak of the disease.

BACK HOME after attending conference in Ontario is J. L. McCaffrey, manager of Edmonton branch of Office Specialty Manufacturing Co. Ltd. Mr. McCaffrey attended company's annual sales convention at head office and factories in Newmarket, Ont.

Bright Program Being Readied

Musical and educational program will feature the "Salute to the United Nations" arranged by the Council of Canadian Unity at the Recreation Hall here Friday.

New film of the United Nations work "Searchlight on the Nations" will be shown, and progress of the international peace body will be discussed by J. W. Wootton, Mrs. Grace Knight, Fred Rendall and Edward Kemp.

The ladies' music and drama chorus will be heard in two songs from the Peace Cantata by John Charles Donovan. Mrs. Peter McCaffrey will conduct.

Dr. Stangoroff told court that when Hayes was discharged from the Winnipeg hospital last winter he was reported as having possible criminal tendencies.

The case for the defence was absent.

Accused Murderer Had Criminal Leaning

See Earlier Story on Page 19.

Michael Joseph Hayes, charged with murder of William W. McKay, was described today as a possible psychopathic personality with anti-social and criminal tendencies.

The description was contained in the evidence of Dr. Wilfred M. Stangoroff, physician at the Deer Lodge military hospital, Winnipeg.

Dr. Stangoroff, who treated Hayes during September 1948, and January, 1949, was brought here last night for the murder trial.

Under cross-examination, Dr. Stangoroff admitted Hayes is no moralist, but probably knows the difference between right and wrong.

DRINKING SPOKE
During the 38 hours preceding the brutal slaying of warehouse worker McKay last June, Hayes was given by Dr. Kenneth Alexander, a doctor at the military hospital, a "drinking spree" with Al Hunter Robinson.

It came out in testimony that the accused man had consumed 16 bottles of beer, 25 glasses of beer, two bottles of ale and an unknown quantity of wine.

Expert testimony as to Hayes' "robable condition at the time" was given by Dr. Kenneth Alexander, Hamilton director of medicine, St. Hamilton District, for the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Dr. Hamilton, who is also consultant for Alcoholics Anonymous, testified that Hayes was possibly in a state of pathological intoxication. He explained that in such a condition a man would go berserk.

CRIMINAL TENDENCIES
Dr. Stangoroff told court that when Hayes was discharged from the Winnipeg hospital last winter he was reported as having possible criminal tendencies.

The case for the defence was absent.

Rangoon Terror Increasing Daily

Daylight Raids by Armed Gangs Are Made on City

By Douglas Lackerston

RANGOON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Daylight raids by armed gangs have brought a new terror to Rangoon, capital of Burma, where violence has increased since the dawn of independence.

Police records show no one is safe, whether government, official, military personnel or ordinary civilian. The gangs strike with the intensity of a jungle beast, swiftly and precisely, then disappear into the forest of thatched dwellings which ring the city.

Officially, the gangsters are described as bandits. But it is also admitted officially that they may be Communists, or army deserters, or a mixture of both. They are reported to be raiding the stocks of arms and stores needed to continue their anti-government campaign.

LIKE TRAINED UNITS

Police officials say the raiders sometimes work with the timing, speed and efficiency of trained commando units. They recall a raid at the northern suburb of Kamayut, five miles from the city, when a gang of 200 surrounded the town and for two hours ransacked every house in the area.

No one was spared. They cornered off a movie house and robbed every member of the audience. Women were stripped and left nude by the roadside. Guards posted at strategic points battled police while the main body escaped with its booty.

RAID TREASURY

Another raid the police remember with embarrassment was on the government civil supplies treasury in the heart of the city, next door to a police station.

A dozen men, armed with sten guns and heavy-calibre revolvers overpowered the Gurkha guard and burst into the room where scores of traders were depositing advance money for rice and canned goods. The bandits escaped through a rear exit with nearly 25,000 rupees as police drove up.

The uneasy way the bandits know when to strike suggests a close liaison with persons on the inside.

Help for Crippled Gets Federal Push

OTTAWA, Oct. 22. (CP)—A national conference to plan a rehabilitation program for handicapped persons will be sponsored by the federal government after parliament prorogues, the labor department announced today.

Invitations have been sent out to provincial governments and a dozen interested organizations to meet in Ottawa. It is expected at least 80 persons will attend.

DRUNK RILED BY CURE AD

Codfish have been known to spawn 3,500,000 eggs at one time.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Saturday, Oct. 22, 1950 7

Letter-Stamping With 'Thank You' Banned In Britain

LONDON, Oct. 22. (Reuters)—Stamping of letters going abroad with the slogan "Britain says thank you for food gifts" which was criticized in parliament this week, has been stopped.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of food, told the House of Commons yesterday that the practice has been limited to the month of August and would not be repeated. Members had protested against the slogan, particularly its being used on letters to such former enemies as Germany and Italy, as humiliating, undignified and a psychological blunder.

Instability Ups Gold Prices

PARIS, Oct. 22. (CP)—French political developments again this week had considerable effect on the French free gold market.

The possibility of a government under Socialist Jules Moch caused prices to advance, as demand from rural centres and certain professional speculators increased.

However, when dealers were faced with the possibility of Italian Socialist Henri Mayer, considered in house circles to favor a more liberal financial policy, prices reacted.

Among supplies there was a good deal of new coins of Central European and Italian origin. Prices rallied today on doubts whether Mayer would succeed in forming a new government. The weakness of the pound sterling was a feature in the black market in foreign currencies.

BRITISH COLUMBIA — A GREAT INDUSTRIAL PROVINCE!

From the industrial, investment and settlement standpoints, British Columbia is rich in opportunity. Its vast natural resources, open ice-free ports, abundance of power, widespread electrification, and favourable climate offer unique inducements to the industrialist. "Half-way House" on the trade routes of the world, its advantages as a site for industrial expansion are obvious.

Its attractive living and labour conditions and advanced labour and social legislation make for contentment and a low labour turn-over.

Stronghold of Free Enterprise, its people have given unqualified endorsement to a Government which has consistently championed the cause of Free Enterprise since taking office eight years ago.

In effect, the people of British Columbia have invited Industry to come in and help to develop the new Industrial Empire which is growing fast in Canada's Far West... have expressed their firm belief that, in rewarding itself for its courage and faith, Industry at the same time and with the same hand rewards the people by creating employment on an ever-increasing scale and swelling the industrial payroll which is the life-blood of the country.

Here, graphically, is the picture of how British Columbia is forging ahead:

Logging and Lumbering	$282,000,000	$360,000,000

Holy Year Big Tourist Magnet

Doll-Starved Countries
Will Be Aided By Influx

By Thomas A. Boynton

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—All roads will lead to Europe and the Holy Land in 1950, say leading travel agencies.

They now are predicting up to 600,000 Americans will cross the Atlantic during the year.

What such a flood of tourists would mean to dollar-starved countries can be imagined from a United States department of commerce report that 1949 set the post-war record for American tourist travel abroad. The department said 250,000 Americans had visited Europe up to Sept. 15.

BIG PILGRIMAGES

One of the biggest attractions will be the pilgrimages to Rome and other religious centres on the continent and in Palestine. This will be the Roman Catholic holy year, the first since 1925. Groups, large and small, are planning mass visits to the religious shrines.

The American Express Company said holy year pilgrimages will add greatly to the anticipated crush of tourists who are being attracted to Europe by devaluation of currencies in 15 countries. Under devaluation, tourists can go further, stay longer, see more and buy more.

Travel experts here say there is a growing concern over whether European travel lines can handle the crowds in the peak season—late spring, summer and early autumn.

PREDICTIONS

Thomas Cook and Sons and American Express report devaluation already has upset mid-summer travel predictions for this year by as much as 15 per cent.

Thirty-two foreign airlines have set fares for dollar-paying passengers flying from America to the Middle East, Asia, Africa and some points in Europe. Ten leading United States and foreign transatlantic airlines reduced by 30 per cent their regular rates Oct. 1 and will hold the fares down until March 30, 1950.

Negro Woman Is 107 Today

STRAITFORD, Ont., Oct. 22.—(CP)—Tiny Mrs. Juliana Bowie was up and around the house as usual yesterday as she marked her 107th birthday anniversary.

"My people have always been free," said Mrs. Bowie, who may be the oldest living Canadian-born Negro. Her mother, a native of Peel township, was married in Philadelphia to Elias Earl, youngest son of a free Negro.

COCKTAIL HOUR OUT IN BURMA

RANGOON, Oct. 22.—(Reuters)—Burma has banned alcoholic drinks at official functions. It was announced here yesterday.

Exceptions will be made when more than 50 per cent of the guests are foreigners.

U.S. to Build Super Radio

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Plans for a new U.S. radio station in the Pacific Northwest, designed to be the most powerful in the world, were announced yesterday by the 10th Naval District.

The proposed 1,000,000-watt transmitter will be part of a communications station, under preliminary construction at Jim Creek in Snohomish county, 46 miles north of here.

It will be 20 times more powerful than the biggest commercial radio stations.

Navy officials said the transmitter will send out strong, low-frequency radio waves, needed to provide a positive means of communication with ships and planes in any kind of weather throughout the North Pacific area.

U.K. Exporter Likes Welfare State Plan

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—(CP)—Sir Graham Cunningham, chairman of Britain's dollar exporters board, had a word to say yesterday about the so-called "welfare state." He favors it but thinks it came too fast, he told the Canadian Exporters' Association.

"There has been in this and other countries criticism of British policy. I am not a supporter of the present Socialist government, but I am a believer in democracy. That government was put there by democratic methods, and to that extent I will defend it in all countries in the world, no matter what I may say about it at home."

That part of the Socialist policy which involves the most criticism abroad is the institution of the welfare state. Although it has fallen to the present Socialist government to introduce that policy, it was, in fact, the conception of Winston Churchill and his followers, who had already laid the foundations for legislation for a welfare state during the war.

"There is nothing wrong with a welfare state. It is a universal ambition to protect the less fortunate against the ravages of economic disaster."

"Every civilized nation would wish to do that, but the point of criticism arises, criticism which I consider is justified, that social leadership pointed out, 'and that is welfare in the United Kingdom has been introduced too quickly and at a price we cannot properly afford; and we all know the simple rule that you cannot go on spending more than you earn without incurring disaster.'"

"It has caused heavy taxation which I believe is overburdensome, but in spite of all these things, our achievements will stand up in any unbiased investigation."

9 Months Dealt To Vancouver Drug Possessor

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—(CP)—Walter Sillanpaa, 35, of Vancouver, yesterday was sentenced to nine months in jail and fined $500 when he pleaded guilty to illegal possession of narcotics.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Laurie noted that as it was Sillanpaa's first criminal offence he would have to give him the minimum sentence of six months in prison but as the accused was found in possession of one ounce of hash, considered a large amount, he was forced to give a more severe sentence.

"I understand you had this narcotic for your own use only," his lordship pointed out, "and that is very lucky for you."

Wit (Termite Type) Flashes in Commons

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(CP)—Toronto's plague of termites may be no laughing matter, but mention of it set the Commons in an uproar today.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto) wanted to know if the government of the agriculture department would "take action against the plague of termites attacking certain sections of Toronto?"

That's as far as he got, when laughter broke loose. There was a federal by-election in Toronto Greenwood Monday and many members are in the area fighting the electoral battle.

"I am not referring to members of the Liberal party," added Mr. Fleming after the laughter subsided.

He asked if the agriculture department could do something about the plague.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in the absence of Agriculture Minister Gardiner, replied that the department could do something about it.

UN Offers Italy Somaliland Control

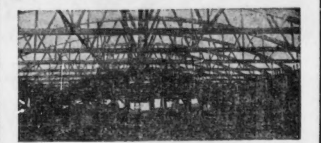

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(CP)—A special United Nations sub-committee yesterday recommended that Italy take over administration of Italian Somaliland within a year.

The group voted 13 to 3 with 4 abstentions in favor of an Argentine proposal, amended by France, for a UN trusteeship agreement for the territory to be negotiated with Italy this year—"if possible."

Far More Cancer Cases Are Expected in Few Years

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(BUP)—Radioactive cobalt soon will provide a cheaper form of treatment for cancer patients, according to Dr. Grantley W. Taylor, an associate in surgery at Harvard University medical school.

Taylor, chairman of the cancer committee of the American college of surgeons, told his convention that the cobalt isotope eventually will be used to treat cancer cases now treated with radium. He said the cobalt already is being used in some cases.

Radioactive cobalt can be obtained for a fraction of the cost of radium and requires less expensive equipment and less knowledge and experience for the administering technician, Taylor said.

He emphasized that not all cancer patients can be treated with radioactive cobalt just as not all can be treated with radium.

STRESSES EARLY DIAGNOSIS

He predicted an increase in cancer patients in the next few years. "There will be a new cure for cancer next week, another the following week and more for the balance of 1948," he said. "Some may actually prove to be effective methods of treatment in certain types of cancer cases, but the best cure that will ever be found is early diagnosis and education." Where the disease is detected early enough, he said, most cases of cancer can be cured. But doctors are handicapped if the disease has progressed very far.

An increase in the cost of hospital care was predicted by Richard D. Vanderwerker. This would result from increased costs. He warned, however, that hospitals must be on guard against "pricing themselves out of the market," and added that adverse public opinion may damage the entire voluntary hospital system.

Red Armies Can Take Hong Kong At Will Is Claim

TOKYO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—China's Communist armies can take Hong Kong any time and without firing a shot, the chief of the Chinese (Nationalist) mission in Japan declared yesterday.

LA-Gen. Chu Shih Ming said the British Crown colony cannot support its population without imports, and the Reds can cut off these shipments easily.

The Communists have moved close to the Sino-British border since recent conquest of Canton, but as yet have given no indication they intend to invade Kowloon territory.

South has a good solid spade suit, and he does have more than he advertised. Therefore, if North bids two spades, South is moved into a bid of four spades, which he cannot make.

Britain's Tories Fear Beaverbrook

Doubtful of What Action He Will Take in Election

By Alan Harvey
LONDON, Oct. 22.—(CP)—A new skirmish in the most wordless war between Lord Beaverbrook and the Conservative party raises interesting speculation about their relationship at the next general election.

It seems that when whips were handed around for the devastating debate in the house of lords, Lord Beaverbrook did not receive one. It was the first time such a thing had happened to the Beaver, and two questions arose:

Did a clerk blunder somewhere, or is the Conservative party really angry at Lord Beaverbrook?

The Conservative answer, issued as an official statement from party headquarters, was that the omission was purely an accident. The Tory peers, the state indicated, thought that the 70-year-old newspaper publisher was holidaying in Canada.

EXCOMMUNICATED
That was the only official word on the subject. But accident or no accident, Lord Beaverbrook seemed to be hurried up. One of his newspapers, the Sunday Express, told earlier that Lord Beaverbrook had been "excommunicated" as a result of a deliberate act by

Tax Refunds Ready When Budget Passed

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(CP)—Thousands of Canadians entitled to income tax refund checks will not get them until Finance Minister Abbott's re-introduced budget is approved by parliament.

Mr. Abbott made this clear Wednesday night in Commons when he submitted the 1949-50 budget for the second time this year. About 750,000 persons were eliminated from the tax rolls and about 500,000 of them are expected to get refunds on tax paid during the year.

It was intended to "expedite" refunds to these individuals during the spring and summer months," Mr. Abbott said, but par-

Brains' Low Pay Stymies Research

A few weeks back, Mary Hayes MacArthur, the talented daughter of a great actress and a fine playwright, was stricken by polio. The doctors did all they could, but . . . Seeing as how I had known Mary since she was in rompers, the "but" bothered me plenty, and so the other day I dropped into the office of one of New York's better diagnosticians.

"Millions have been spent to track down the polio bug," I said. "How come it's still at large?" "That's a difficult question," said the diagnostician, "and a dozen doctors would give you a dozen different answers. My theory is that it applies to cancer and heart as well as to the men in charge of paralling out the funds are spending too much for buildings and too little for brains. Let me explain . . ."

Virtually every city in this country has at least one impressive structure given over to medical research. In New York there is a dozen such buildings, including the recently completed skyscraper which houses the Sloan-Kettering Institute.

Coolie Wages Paid Brains
Yet, with few exceptions, the doctors and scientists in these medical rock-piles are working for coolie wages. Cockeyed as it may seem in this year of grace and inflation, the research men who are trying to wipe out polio, cancer and other man killers are paid less than ditch-diggers, street-sweepers or apprentice carpenters.

What gives, you ask? Well, the ridiculous system works something like this: Hundreds of millions have been spent and are being spent to build and equip hospitals and universities. When completed, however, few of these institutions have the necessary funds to hire the even more necessary brains and know-

And so the M.D. or Ph.D. who wants to use these facilities must waste a fellowship from the United States Public Health Service, the Rockefeller Foundation, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis or one of the other do-good organizations.

To eliminate competition, these outfits have gotten together and agreed to offer identical stipends—$10,000 a year, plus an allowance of $600 for dependents. And that's not a startling salary—as far as the germ detective is concerned, so lousy is both his top and bot-

Bigness Is Research Trap
Naturally, a lot of our talented doctors thumb their noses at these foundations and take jobs for $6,000 a year or better in industrial laboratories, stockpiling hair, money and know-how. Others hunt jobs for a year or so, but after a while, fed up with borrowing and mooching, they go into general practice where they can earn at least as much as a bricklayer.

U.S. Slashes Rail Travel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

The order is effective at mid-

It said it was of the opinion "that an emergency exists requiring immediate action in all sections of the country."

Many Changes in Navy May Come Out of Probe

By Douglas How

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(CP)—Reports that a series of "incidents" among the crews of three Canadian warships at sea only this year were provoked by subversive elements are expected to be set at rest by the report of a board of investigation.

The 25-member report is expected to be finished next week in the Commons and it may have a long range as well as short range implications for the navy.

It is believed to deal with the whole broad picture of navy life and methods because the powers given the board were considerably broader than mere investigation of the incidents themselves.

It was appointed in April and its members were Rear Admiral E. M. Macgregor, chairman, 13 navy's chief of the Atlantic coast, L. W. Brockington, Ottawa lawyer, and L. C. Andrieu of the external affairs department, a wartime and home a reserve naval officer.

SEQUENCE OF THREE
The disturbances occurred on the aircraft carrier Magnificent, the destroyer Crescent and the destroyer Albatross and were described by the navy at the time as comparable with the breaches of discipline. However, the fact they all occurred within a few weeks stirred reports they might have been caused by subversive elements.

Naval sources have stated since that there is no evidence that such elements were the cause of the incidents or that the incidents themselves were directly related in any way.

The disturbances involved a total of more than 100 sailors on the three vessels.

First of three incidents was reported aboard the Albatross on February 25. Ratings were charged with "blackness," a minor breach of discipline.

The second broke out early in March aboard the Crescent while on duty in the Far East. No charges were laid.

The third, aboard the Magnificent during operations with the Canadian naval task force on maneuvers in the Caribbean, saw 22 naval control ratings failing to muster for duty to clean out messdecks.

As in the other two incidents, the disturbance aboard the Magnificent involved ratings asking to see the captain to make complaints. In the case of the Magnificent the complaints included 200 hours of duty and little shore leave as well as shortened meal hours and trades pay changes within the ratings' branch.

In all three cases the disturbances were cleared up "on the spot" by officers of the ships.

SARCASTIC BID GIVEN RUSSIA TO JOIN UN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A U.S. State Department official today asked Russia to "join the United Nations."

Dean Rusk, deputy under-secretary for political affairs, declared that up to now Russia has neither complied with its obligations under the charter nor carried out the purposes and principles on which the UN was founded.

In an address prepared for the Commonwealth Club of California, Rusk said that despite the "exasperation" of other nations, he should "deeply regret" Russia's withdrawal from the UN.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Yugoslavia accused Poland today of joining a plot with the Soviet Union to overthrow Marshal Tito's government.

The accusation was made in a note handed to the almost-canceled Polish embassy replying to Warsaw's denunciation of its pact of friendship and mutual assistance with Belgrade.

The note said Poland had "reluctantly" canceled the pact without reason.

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(UPI)—Finance Minister Douglas Abbot tonight exemplified the government's "buy Canadian" (what you can) policy as he delivered his budget speech.

He wore a plain grey suit, with a conservative cut, of English cloth. It was learned the material was brought to Canada for him by a friend and made up into the suit by the minister's tailor.

He was in sharp contrast to the light brown Canadian garment he wore on "sensible budget" night last March 22. The minister said there was no significance in the change from British to sombre, however.

More Dickens Promised Radio Fans

The merry, or not so merry, Kingdome about which Charles Dickens wrote in his numerous books is to be revived again on Canadian radio.

Dramatization of the famed author's revealing chronicle on his contemporary England was first attempted on the Hamilton New York of the CBC last year when the Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club were aired.

This year, as a continuation of the idea, the life and adventures of Nicholas Nickleby will be presented with broadcasts each Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. on C.F.R.B. The series starts this Monday, but owing to Edmonton's late hour, it will be heard here beginning November 7.

PRIVATE SCHOOL
Nicholas Nickleby is a novel about a certain type of private school in Yorkshire which flourished in the early part of the nineteenth century. Of the school and its inmates, Dickens said in his original preface:

Mr. Squeers and his school are faint and feeble pictures of an existing reality, but they should be deemed impossible. The material which Tommy Twined has adapted for presentation on radio, commenting on his job, Mr. Twined says he finds Dickens a writer is clever, witty, observant, and very funny and satirically naive with occasional lapses into tedious sentimentality.

SENTIMENTALITY CUT
In attempting the work, he says he has tried to cut down the sentimental part in favor of the portions which are humorous, satirical, and really critical or just plain good fun.

While he realizes he is leaving himself open to criticism for having tampered with the master, Mr. Twined says he has tried to get to the heart of the matter. It is not an attempt to present a literary exposition on the good and bad in Dickens, but rather that Nicholas Nickleby is a good story and should make dramatic fare.

All too frequently, Mr. Twined states, he is accused of putting more Twined than Dickens in the adaptation when actually what he is accused of adding is a forgotten section of Dickens.

Lucio Agostini has prepared a preface to go with the broadcast, he presented under the direction of Andrew Allan.

GENIUS IQ FOUND IN BOY IN TROUBLE

DERRY, England, Oct. 20. (Reuters) — A psychologist called in by teachers because an 11-year-old schoolboy was "difficult," discovered the child to be a genius "with a brain in a million."

Mr. J. Wheeler told a conference today that he examined the boy and found he had an intelligence quotient of 150 compared with the average adult's 100. Wheeler would not divulge the boy's name but said he was a grammar school and was being watched.

Film Society Plans Set

This feature was awarded the highest honor given by any Canadian motion picture in the 1938 Edinburgh Film Festival.

Ladies Musical, Drama Society Meets Friday

First meeting of the Ladies' Musical and Drama Society, for this season will be held Friday in the Recreation Hall on 100 street.

Under auspices of the Council for Canadian Unity as part of a program dedicated to the United Nations, the concert will sing songs from a new cassette by John Charles Johnson, A Prayer for Peace to music by Sir Sibelius and Shostakovich's United Nations Song.

Mrs. Peter McGeer will direct the chorus and Mrs. C. Couvart will be accompanist.

Meeting will begin at 8:30 and will be open to the public.

That Extra Bit

DOCKING, Kent, England—(CP)—Docking council will spend an extra $25 ($250) on each new council house to provide a garden and a clothes post.

Mila Logan sings a lively version, with reharmonizing, of the popular, of the "Top Scotch Polka." On the record, with "The Story of Annie Laurie," she sounds like a poor man's Gracie Fields.

Symphony Week Proves Success

Greater Efforts in Future May Follow Recent Events

Edmonton has had its first Symphony Week, and Philharmonia Society officials are well-pleased with the results. More than that, there was a hint in their comments that week's symphony week may become a permanent fixture among the regular events on a much larger and more prestigious scale.

Philharmonia Society president Harold Sagar and conductor J. Williams agreed that their organization got a "positive boost" through Symphony Week.

One of the principal reasons they played with the week in the organization they reserved in putting across a venture began just three weeks ago.

University education department, press and radio, Women's Musical Club (which provided refreshments), St. John's Bay Co. (which supplied programs and donated the Edmonton for daily films, Music Temple and Public Library, various other agencies, and many others helped put the week over.

CROWDS DISAPPOINT
Not so many people turned out to see the films and afternoon shows as had been hoped for. They varied from a mere handful to a crowd in excess of 100.

But the reason crowds were small is that the programs were held during the daytime, when most people are busy at day jobs. President Sagar said he had about 100 calls during the week.

Growth of the City

The census of 1930 reveals a further increase of 10,800 in the City's population, the largest growth of any year since 1912, making the total 137,469, and at this date probably well over 140,000. This is an extraordinary rate of growth, equal to about four times the average for the country, and directly the financial consequences are beginning to be felt.

The most serious aspect is not the extra cost of current operations, which can be met from the increasing returns from increasing assessments, but the capital cost involved in construction of additional public works and services, the money for which, as of necessity, to be borrowed through the bond market. Upon this might not be too far if it were only one year's program, but the abnormal rate of growth seems to be continuous, even accelerated each year, with the result that the demand for minimum additions to facilities is so great as to be financially embarrassing.

It is for this reason that the Commission, knowing well what lies ahead, were compelled to recommend to Council that during the next several years all new public works be restricted to those items which are absolutely necessary, and without which the City could not function. The Commission also recommended that the existing facilities be maintained, and that the City should not be burdened with the cost of new public works, but that the City should be able to provide for the minimum of 25,000 people, and there are some who would go even higher than that.

The following is a comparative tabulation showing fire calls and losses for the past ten years:

Year	Fire Calls	Losses
1931	1,000	$1,000,000
1932	1,000	$1,000,000

1939	1,000	$1,000,000
1940	1,000	$1,000,000

The present strength of the Police Force is 160, this number including all ranks, central staff, constables, and is 25 more than at the corresponding period in 1939. This increase was necessitated by the increase in police duties occasioned by the increase in population, and the increase in the number of parking meters installed, and the general increase in motor traffic in the City.

Arrests for the period under review totalled 2,015, an increase of 633 over the figures for the corresponding period last year. Complaints reported to the Detective Department showed an increase of 631, this year, as compared with 1,384 for the same period last year.

Expenditures for the nine month period totalled $30,000,000, as compared with $27,000,000 for the same period last year.

P.M. Radio was installed in some of the police motor vehicles during 1939, and all A.M. receivers were replaced in the Police Motorcycles, as satisfactory A.M. receivers were not then available.

The Police Department has been equipped with new Fire extinguishers and the First Aid equipment is also being brought up-to-date and installed in all police vehicles.

Engineering Department

The Department has carried out a large program of Capital Expenditure, estimated at approximately four million dollars.

A summary of this program, with work completed to date, is as follows:

IN OUR Province You Arrive But Do You Get Off?

By Ken Liddell
Principal News Editor

At this time of the year men who make their living by travelling find their thoughts turning from highway maps to railway timetables.

This makes life very complicated because it is pretty hard to find a highway map inside a coupe, but it is a darned sight harder to understand a timetable.

It would seem that timetables are produced by a printer who got the training in Egypt in the days when they and left them around for chartered symbols on rocks.

By a timetable of the public, we refer to a printed booklet which a ticket clerk may give you if you have a coupon who want to travel with one of the vice-presidents. Not to one of those blackboards that hang outside the country.

It would be awkward carrying around one of those blackboards but it would be of more use than a timetable. With a blackboard you could at least keep track of the bridge scores with the boys you meet in the smoker.

Mark Your Margin, Please

They don't give you much room for marginal notes on a timetable. Master of fact then seem to pretty well take up the whole business with marginal notes of their own.

And this is where the old Egyptian printer comes into the picture. A timetable has more curves attached to it than a permanent wave.

One of the most beautiful and baffling is a little thing that looks like two eggs placed side by side. It looks like those oblong glasses some people have the courage to wear these days.

This little thing can mean almost anything. It does a very unexcited life—and what it means varies with whoever page you are looking at. Consequently you can spend the greater part of a trip trying to figure out whether you are on the right train.

After a while, after much travelling, you get over worrying about such things because you soon learn that while the timetable says you should leave somewhere at such a time and get somewhere else at another time, when you buy a ticket nothing is guaranteed except the tax.

But actually, this little doodle is very simple to understand.

It Means Just That

All it means, for example, is that the train will stop at Banff on signal to enroute for St. John's Lake and east on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, except tomorrow and to detrain from Jasper and west on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday or on Friday when it precedes a holiday except Christmas Day and the day after Thanksgiving when it will stop to both detrain and enroute from or to any point within the 30-day limit, in which case sufficient notice must be given in writing to the agent.

On the other hand, it could mean that the train will stop at Banff on the station platform. This is quite a pleasant should you wish to notify the agent in writing that you expect to get on the train come Fourth of July and you'd very much like to have the thing stop.

If you find it difficult to wheedle a timetable from a ticket clerk—and who can blame them for taking such care of a thing so complicated—it is possible to buy a little book for two cents which has a schedule of just about everything that moves and also has a map of Winnipeg which shows the rivers you can jump into after trying to figure out how soon you can leave the place.

That must be the reason. Certainly nobody would want to get into it.

Story of Alberta oil is one of the big world stories of our times. That's why The New Bulletin today devotes an entire supplement to the breath-taking developments that have centred on Edmonton.

I think nearly everybody dreams at one time or another of getting rich on oil. As a matter of fact we had an oil well on the old family homestead some years ago. But we've had no trouble finding garage space for Rolls-Royce cars and Long Abbot has never done any glazing over income tax cheques out of us mailed to Ottawa each March 21.

Yet we did actually have an oil well on the old farm. It was in the springtime that mother first mentioned how funny the well water tasted. Then Dad said he had noticed the same thing.

We kids finally agreed the water tasted funny and snatched promptly and the well was drilled.

BUCKET STEM TEST
One day we examined a full bucket just taken from the well, out in the sunlight. There were little patches of oil floating on the top.

None of our folks knew much about oil but we did know that people became fabulously rich because of oil.

Mother started talking about what she would do when the money checks started coming in. She would certainly get a new modern house and appliances to begin with and perhaps take that long-deferred trip back to Ontario.

My sisters stayed up late at night thumbing through the mail order catalogues, Belg girls they naturally intended to blow most of the family oil riches that came their way on clothes.

"My dad didn't say much but he was thinking of retirement in a nice little cottage in British Columbia way where there are not many blizzards or dust storms."

At eight years of age I didn't care too much about dust or dirt but I did care about the money. I had a great hope that if the family oil well meant money money money, the folks might be so happy they would grant me permission to leave of absence from school.

Well, the oil dreams were getting better all the time as the well water got nausier.

LIGHT ON SUBJECT
Then one dark night somebody started bawling for the lantern for some chore out in the barn. We all hunted high and low but the lantern didn't turn up.

Next morning my father remembered he had used the lantern in the well some months before and after he had the crib made. He had hung it on the wall inside the well casing as he worked.

We went down the well and got the lantern.

But the lantern was lost or our oil well.

The lantern had sprung a leak, and oil had been seeping quietly into the water for weeks.

So there's the astounding story of our "oil-well" and a traffic accident. It never paid off except in a lot of sour dreams.

Former Edmontonian, Don Carlson, 21, of Vancouver, has been appointed managing editor of the Vancouver News-Herald.

His appointment, effective Oct. 27, was announced by Vancouver publisher, C. B. DeBelridge.

Mr. Carlson was born in Edmonton and attended the University of Alberta here. He joined the Vancouver News-Herald staff in 1934 after a year with the Toronto Daily Star. In 1937 he was appointed special editor of the Sun.

"We aren't out to make slaves of the boys," he said.

"If parents did a proper job of bringing up their children, there actually wouldn't be any need for all the various youth organizations we have."

"The Scouts is just one such group. And we think it's a good thing it has produced better results than many others."

SUPPLY LEADERS
Scout training, said the General, can help both the underprivileged and the over-privileged boy. The group aims to supply trained leadership.

"We're dangerous and want to be about useless people to mess with about a boy's mind."

Scouting gets boys out of doors, teaches them to use their leisure time constructively and creates unity of outlook by supplying community of interest, he said.

City Gyro Record Shows 10 Playgrounds Founded

Establishment of 10 playgrounds in Edmonton, marked the Gyro Club's recent service work, members of the local club were told at the annual celebration of the founders of Gyro.

Dinner and dance at the MacDonald hotel, attended by 120 members, their wives and guests, marked the anniversary.

Nellie V. Buchanan, K.C. honorary member and only charter member still active in the local club, was special speaker.

With recreational work among children its objective, the local Gyro Club has supplied funds for establishing 10 playgrounds, and prior to formation of the Edmonton Recreation Commission, maintenance and supervision of the playgrounds was also provided by the club.

At present activity is limited to establishing new playgrounds together with keeping up the playground located at the University hospital. Eventually the club hopes to provide 16 Gyro playgrounds in the city.

Two scholarships are awarded annually by the club to the boy and girl obtaining highest academic standing in grade 8.

Hayes Threat Told, Case Nearing Finish

Murder Trial Hears Surprise Defence Witness

Michael Joseph Hayes once tried to kill his fiancee and several times threatened to kill his landlady and her children.

This was the startling evidence given at the Hayes murder trial yesterday by Mrs. Eleanor McKnight, Winnipeg housewife, first witness for the defence.

She is one of two persons whose statements from Winnipeg told the jury that Hayes had been in the room and asked him to leave, he told her it was "just like home" and refused to go.

It is expected the defence will plead insanity.

Hayes is believed to have been discharged from the army because of mental instability.

UNDER ALIAS
It is understood he was under the name of Thomas Lee and was in the city under the influence of alcohol.

Crown prosecutor W. J. Abbott said that on the afternoon of Hayes threat.

"You are describing a man who gets intoxicated and becomes a very nasty drunk—that's all," said the prosecutor.

A second defence witness, who was called to the stand, said that Hayes had been in the room and asked him to leave, he told her it was "just like home" and refused to go.

Elizabeth House Guests Have Cozy Home Life

Sunset of life shines brightly for residents of Elizabeth House. Maintained by a board of directors and Sisters of St. John the Divine, this home for elderly women is bright, cozy furnished and conveniently planned.

The old Mission House, property of the Edmonton Anglican Diocese, was converted to Elizabeth House May 15, 1940. It was handed over to a board of directors to be remodelled for use as a home for elderly women.

Original chapel of the Mission House was built in 1905 by the late Sir Henry Pellatt of Toronto.

Present-day board of directors includes Bishop W. P. Harfoot as chairman, Dean A. M. Trendell, Mrs. Philip Baker, Mrs. Harold Weir, Mrs. Stanley Clarke, Mrs. H. C. Marshall, Mrs. Philip Debnay and Mrs. Harfoot.

Sister Amelia of the Order of Sisters of St. John the Divine is in charge of household affairs.

Sister's sunny smile adds to the charm of the whole, modernly furnished establishment.

At present fourteen elderly women are living at the house. Each one has a cozy, gaily-chinted bed-sitting room, with desk, table, chairs, pretty bedspreads, drapes, curtains, closets. Personal belongings give the final "homey" touch.

A large L-shaped living room is a picture of gracious living with comfy, cozy chesterfields, cherry fireplace, interesting oil prints, bookcases lined with all-type books and a delightful smattering of gay little knick-knacks. One section of the room is walled with near full-length windows framed in colorful, splashing-print drapes.

Cool pale green walls give a restful background throughout the rooms and corridors.

Bright, be-windowed dining room proudly holds a beautiful carved oak suite with monstrous buffet, china cabinet, tea wagon and half a dozen tables for six.

In one corner is a white marble plant stand which houses a collection of showy African violets, begonias.

Sisters set the tables with pretty place mats and flowers—sprigged stems, although some of the residents often prefer to have gray meals on their own tables.

The shining, up-to-the-minute modern kitchen is another pride and joy of the house. Cupboards galore line the sparkling clean green walls. Naturally finished and varnished, the cupboards give ample space to the many dishes donated for service to the house.

A huge refrigerator, one of meat-cooler size, partially fills one wall. A beautiful, gleaming stove faces it across the room. This well-equipped kitchen was designed to handle meal facilities for 50 people.

The Elizabeth House Guild was organized soon after the home idea was born. This group of women, now led by president Mrs. Harold Weir, provides assistance to the board of directors and the Sisters in maintenance of the home and comforts for the residents.

GUILD BAZAAR WORKERS BUSY

BUSY FINGERS of Elizabeth House Guild members give appreciable results. Mrs. E. R. Verge, left, examines intricately embroidered pillow slips as Mrs. Philip Debnay, Mrs. Hector Kennedy, Mrs. J. M. Forbes and Mrs. J. A. L. Smith finish last minute work. Mrs. Smith is bazaar convener.

KITCHEN CUT-UPS PROVE WORTHWHILE FOR INTERESTED GUILD

IMMACULATE KITCHEN of the guild house is well-equipped to facilitate cooking for 50 people. Mrs. C. H. Ross, left, and Mrs. Robert LeRoy occupy themselves during a visit by arranging tea dainties for residents of the Elizabeth House. Conveniently planned for maximum efficiency, the kitchen is the pride and joy of guild members, residents of the house and the Sisters of St. John the Divine, who manage the household.

GUESTS LIKE HOMEY TOUCH

SISTERS OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE manage household affairs and warmly welcome Elizabeth House guests. Elderly women who live in the house are proud as can be of their sunny home.

CAREFULLY PLANNED HOUSEHOLD AIDS

PRESIDENT MRS. HAROLD WEIR gives a helping hand when visiting the house. Guild members have a pet pride in the "dumb waiter" which cuts down unnecessary work in the house. Mrs. Weir enjoys meeting residents and listening to their problems.

VISITING GUILD MEMBER LENDS A HAND

BEAUTIFULLY BLOOMING African cloths receive special care and attention in their sunny corner of the house dining room. Mrs. T. W. Stride loves to assist to their needs when she visits Elizabeth House. Sisters and residents of the house coax their lovely plants into flowering vitality.

Mrs. J. A. L. Smith Is Convener Of House Guild Bazaar Nov. 3

Elizabeth House Guild members are busy knitting, sewing, planning their Nov. 3 bazaar.

Mrs. J. A. L. Smith is convener of the major event, which will take place at All Saints' Parish hall.

In the absence of Guild president, Mrs. Harold Weir, Mrs. C. E. Ross, vice-president, will receive with Mrs. Smith from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Proceeds of the bazaar will be used for remodeling expenses for Elizabeth House.

Everything from potholders to pillow cases will be sold at the bazaar. Fair Isle sweaters, bright diamond socks, baby garments, frothy and practical aprons, children's and teen-agers' spiral socks, will all be featured.

A handful of members have contributed their time and talent to making felt afternoon bags from a panorama of colorful cloth. Shopping bags, made gay with applique flowers, are other felt-work pieces which will attract bazaar buyers.

Conveners assisting Mrs. Smith with arrangements are Mrs. R. P. LeRoy, tea convener; Mrs. N. A. Kilburn, knitting; Mrs. P. L. Debnay, baby knitting; Mrs. Allen Gillies, aprons; Mrs. Hector Kennedy, home cooking; Mrs. J. M. Verge, white elephants; Mrs. T. W. Stride, treasurer; Mrs. J. M. Forbes, fancy work.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Quality Stockings
Best for Wearability

By Ben Thrifty

Up, up, and up goes my nylon bill, 'cause every time I move there's a stifling, rending of thread as another socking gives up on the ground.

Haven't figured out to my own satisfaction if it's this darn office chair that does the dirty work, or if the nylon I buy is poor quality.

I decided, I wouldn't mind forking out $2.50 for every pair of hose, if I thought the expensive ones would wear longer.

After asking my favorite stocking saleswoman about the quality, I have a few cents to pass on to you about the buying of stockings.

Customers should realize, she said, that in buying fashionable hosiery, you get what you pay for.

Frequent question is "Why does one pair of stockings last for a week and another pair for a day?"

There's nothing in the difference in price as important. For instance, brand name stockings are a good buy at a basic price, because they have been tested by the producers of a manufacturer with a reputation for quality merchandise to keep up.

And, naturally enough, the amount of time and workmanship put into the making of a pair of sheerest high-fashions hosiery determines its price.

For example, knitting and sewing machines can be run at a fast rate or speed for mass production of cheaper hose, or kept under control at a slower rate, which means greater individual construction but higher operating costs.

Is husband ever going to be happy with me, when he sees what I picked up today by way of a surprise for him?

Sigh! A daily denture or two today sends him a back of surprise, so I found him a mouthful of stockings.

In bright California pottery, it's about three times the price of an ordinary coffee cup, and costs $2.

Couldn't buy something for him today evening the score on my side as I had him a back of surprise, so I found him a mouthful of stockings.

Tidbits I chose was a medley of ripples of ruffled widths in French, character, real blue, purple and black.

If that sounds too good for you, there are lots of other choices.

WHY GROW OLD

Between-Meal Snacks
Throw Dieting Awry

By Josephine Lowman

Our appetite should control the amount we eat, but in most humans it has become perverted to such an extent that we can no longer depend on it as a guide for the amount of food we need each day.

Highly reasoned food whets the appetite and tempts one to eat more than normal and then the stomach becomes stretched.

Eating in rather the amount we eat, is a habit. After the stomach is enlarged the woman or man may experience a hollow feeling when consuming the correct amount of calories unless the stomach has had time to shrink back to normal size. The foods we crave depend on what we are accustomed to eating. You may have the candy habit and feel that you must have some each day, but if you go on a reducing diet and cut it out for a while, you will soon find that your dreams are right and that you have gained from 5 to 10 pounds without realizing it.

If you eat just a little more than you need each day you will gain a few pounds every year. You may do this for several years before you suddenly find that your dreams are right and that you have gained from 5 to 10 pounds without realizing it.

If you do not control your habits in food consuming your gain will continue until it adds up to a big amount of overweight.

Women write, saying "How can I control my appetite?" I am happy to tell the "how" or "I crave sweets. What can I do about this?" I can only answer, "Use self-control for a little while and you will soon find these problems solved."

If you would like to have my calorie chart sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for my leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Habitual Spanking
Proves Wasted Effort

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There are few subjects which arouse such strong emotions as the subject of spanking. Either a parent is a do-spank or don't-spank advocate and she cannot see any good in the opposite method.

This column pictures constantly that to spank children habitually, as a means of improving or correcting their behavior, is wasted effort. It has been proved so conclusively. For the child who has an occasional spanking, or the one who gets only one or two in his young life, the results are very magical. This magic is lost the sheerer they are used.

If a child is always spanked for his misbehavior he reacts in one of several ways. He may be so affronted at this attitude toward him, that he is filled with a spirit of revenge and his subsequent behavior is inspired by that emotion. He wants to get even and he knows he can't, for he knows all the tricks of behavior which madden the parent.

Then there is the child who becomes so hardened to being spanked that it has no influence whatever upon him. He takes his medicine and goes out, afterwards, and does as he pleases. He prides himself on his ability to stand hand punishment and it is in no way motivated better conduct. In fact, what he does seems to him no worse than what his parents do to him. He pays his bill in full for his crimes when he submits to the physical outrage upon his person.

And, for the parent who claims good results from an occasional spanking, she may know that it is

Fashion Laurels to the Lady in Lace

My economical soul is delighted when I find an ultra smart fashion that is a good investment as well as one that exactly what a handsome lace evening gown is, for it has a timeless beauty that endures forever.

I've never seen so many lovely lace gowns as were shown in the Paris collection. Fine Chantilly lace usually in blue over colored tulle or satin slips; or in stunning colors as coral, pink, crimson, or shades of a dozen pretty blues.

"The Valleyview"

THE "VALLEYVIEW"—The distinctive design here illustrated fills the desires of many prospective home owners who require three bedrooms on the first floor. The layout is commodious totalling 1,500 square feet. Axial lines are developed in the plan to provide focal points of interest. The large living room, suggested in knotty-pine finish has an attractive bay window and a beautifully detailed fireplace. This is of the "Heatmaster" type and will readily heat the living room, hall and dinette, providing a 40 degree temperature change. This effects a big saving in fuel consumption. A connecting Western pergola off the service entrance is suggested to connect the garage. This plan is excellent for a corner lot and requires at least 75 feet frontage. Design is in Rustic Colonial. This is another in the Bulletin series of practical home designs by Harold C. Bennett, architect, Windsor, Ontario.

Potato Flooding Ban Urged by U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(CP)—The United States has urged that the United Nations not be asked to flood the market with surplus Canadian potatoes. The U.S. government is concerned that a large influx of Canadian potatoes into the United States market will cause a sharp drop in prices.

The United Nations has agreed to a plan which Canada put into effect last November when a similar condition arose.

All works contributed about 90 per cent of Canada's total oil output.

Units May Convert Warm Air System

Flexibility of Design Enables Additions As Budget Permits

An outstanding home comfort advantage enjoyed by owners of central fired warm air heating systems is the flexibility of system design, states the Canadian Chapter of the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association.

At a moderate cost it is possible for the owner of a gravity type system to add the benefits of winter air conditioning at any time he desires with practically no change in the distribution piping.

That the Warm Air Heater who must keep his units at a minimum can have a gravity warm air heating system and still be able to add air conditioning without disturbing any of the original system. A gravity system may be converted to a winter air conditioning system by adding a fan and a complete unit in the system. These units are manufactured in complete package form and can be installed in the existing furnace.

more makes it possible to provide heat in the house without having the furnace polluted in the middle of the basement. It can be located in any part of the basement or utility room thereby allowing more efficient utilization of available space.

Because circulation of heated air is accomplished under pressure, smaller and more inconspicuous pipes may be used. Increased headroom is provided in the basement. Also, heated air under pressure can be carried to the most remote rooms in the house even though there may be a rather strong wind pressure against that side of the house.

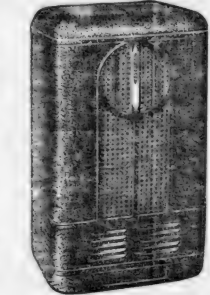

Home comfort benefits available with the winter air conditioning type of heating system are: air at a satisfactory temperature; air containing the proper amount of water vapor; air moving constantly but imperceptibly; air free of dust, dirt, smoke and pollen; air free of staleness; and air free of germs and bacteria.

NHA DESIGN-OF-THE-MONTH

All decked out in a glittering finish of aluminum siding, this two-bedroom bungalow should strike the fancy of many small families looking forward to home-ownership. And the interior arrangement is just as pleasing as the exterior appearance. Entrance to the living room, which features a modern, heavy curtain window, is through a vestibule on the left side, ensuring privacy in the two bedrooms on the right. A dining area is included in the kitchen. A liberal amount of closet space is provided in both bedrooms, off the living room and in the hallway.

The rear entrance to the house leads directly to the basement stairs and eliminates the necessity of going through the kitchen. The rectangular shape of the house and the planning arrangement for the kitchen and bathroom are design elements which result in reduced construction costs.

Aluminum siding has been used on the house illustrated but any other type of exterior finish could easily be used instead. For estimating purposes, the outside dimensions of the bungalow are 30 feet by 24 feet 6 inches and the floor area is 720 square feet.

Complete construction drawings for this plan, known as Design 49-20, are available from the office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

On The Farm

By Pat McVean

The story of Sheridan Lawrence will stand re-telling because there is something of the spirit of Sheridan Lawrence in every pioneer.

And not necessarily the old-time pioneers—but the men of today, like the fellow in Medicine Hat, who is going right ahead re-establishing a cattleman's life because he knows that the new life of the west is the new life of the west. As it is the 100 pounds of cotton seed planted experimentally in the area this summer was a failure, in the field the crop failed to mature. In another it was frozen, and in a third it was eaten by a species of spider.

But the Medicine Hat man figures an economical cotton seed could lead the weather, because and give Southern Alberta a much-needed diversification of the farming industry.

Maybe not, and maybe not, but Sheridan Lawrence grew (and grew at Fort Vermilion on the Peace River more than 20 years ago when all the experts agreed that farmers, prairie, Indiana and Texas in the far north.
